2015 KCIFT Undergraduate and Graduate Student Scholarships

The Kansas City Section of the Institute of Food Technologists invites faculty members to nominate outstanding undergraduate and graduate students for the KC-IFT Student Awards. Nominees should be associate members of the Kansas City Section and currently enrolled; however, students applying for new membership may also be considered for the award. Please use the following guidelines when nominating students:

To nominate undergraduate students:

Faculty should submit a letter of nomination, citing the following:

- Grade point average
- Leadership ability and related activities
- Career goals and achievements
- Specific involvement in IFT, including the Kansas City Section

To nominate graduate (MS or PhD students) students:

Faculty should submit a letter of nomination, citing the following:

- The degree the nominee is seeking
- Research goals and achievements
- Professional and extra-curricular activities
- Specific involvement in IFT, including the Kansas City Section
- List of publications

Faculty members are encouraged to nominate qualified undergraduate, masters, and doctoral students for these awards. This is an excellent way to recognize valued Food Science students and their achievements. There will be a total of three scholarships awarded, one $500.00 award for each category undergraduate, masters and doctoral. Faculty can send (by either email or postal mail) letters of nomination by March 1, 2015, to the following address:
